

When I was 9 years old I was in an automobile accident with my family. We were hit by a drunk driver. He killed my mother and put me in the hospital. Right after the accident I was taken to a local hospital and then transferred to St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw, where I spent about 90 days. Then I was transferred to U of M Mott's Children's Hospital for about another 90 days. After I got home my dad put me into the 4th grade with the class I was supposed to go into had I not had my accident. School was really hard because I had problems remembering and learning things, so my dad got me a tutor. After I graduated from High School, I was put into a rehab group home called the Genus Group. I moved from there to my Aunt's sister's house where I stayed for a couple of months before moving to New Medico. After moving to New Medico I was really confused for a long time. Today I feel very fortunate to be in a rehab facility like Eisenhower Center because there are many people in that the world that need help and cannot get it. Without Auto No Fault I would probably be where I was before I started getting any kind of therapy.
